

Vocal Groups Unite In Annual Concert

By Dick Bender

The annual Spring Festival, to be held in the college auditorium May 16, marks the highpoint in activities of St. Joseph's vocal aggregations for the present year. The approximately one-hour-and-forty-five-minute choral concert will include the St. Joseph's Glee Club, Concert Chorus, Extension Chorus, and the Glee Club from the College of St. Francis, Joliet, Ill. It will feature both religious and semi-classical numbers.

The concert consists of two parts. The Glee club from the College of St. Francis opens the concert with four numbers. They include "Holiday for Strings" by Rose, "Where Willows Bend" by Elliot, "Turtle Dove" by Niles, and "Lady of Spain" by Evans.

Following this, the mixed chorus will present three religious selections: "Adoramus Te, Christi" by Palistrini, "Panis Angelicus" by Franck, and "Ave Maria" by Schubert.

Brazilian Folk Song

The St. Francis Glee Club will then return for two more songs: "Tutu Maramba," a Brazilian folk song by McKinney, and "Will You Remember," from the Romberg musical, "Maytime." The St. Joseph's Glee Club and Choir conclude the first part of the program with the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" and Fred Waring's arrangement of the spiritual, "Dry Bones."

St. Joseph's Glee Club opens the second part of the program with "There's No Business Like Show Business" by Berlin. Two solos by Robert Gregoire will follow. The entire club will then sing "Scandia" by Gaines.

Angeline Stein is Soloist

The mixed chorus then makes its appearance singing "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" by Berlin, "Anywhere I Wander" by Loesser, and Ringwald's arrangement of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Angeline Stein is soloist in the Loesser piece. The final number on the program will be a tribute to Mary. The Concert Chorus will sing Seydler's "Heart of Mary" and "Magnificat" by Nieland.

This will be the final concert on this year's schedule. Recent engagements of the Glee Club include a regional tour April 29, with appearances at Roosevelt High School, Chicago, Ill. The club also sang in the Parents' Day procession on the campus and for the golden jubilee of Rev. Ildephonse Rapp on May 5.

Upper Classmen Choose Officers For Coming Year

With neither candidate receiving a majority of votes, a run-off late Monday was necessary to decide the race for presidency of the class of '56. The two candidates for the position were Roger Uecker of Fort Wayne and Tim O'Brien of Chicago.

Jim McPolin of Chicago defeated Joe Simala of San Peirre, Ind., and John Cheek of Danville, Ill., for the vice-presidency. Though not on the ballot, Cheek received several write-in votes.

Bulletin

In a runoff election held Monday, May 10, Roger Uecker defeated Tim O'Brien in the race for president of the class of '56. Jack Carlson also defeated Dick Obergfell in the contest for treasurer.

Robert Pitt of St. Joseph's, Michigan, is the new class secretary. Pitt defeated Marty Collins of Chicago by a narrow margin.

Another run-off between Jack Carlson of Chicago and Dick Obergfell of Indianapolis was necessary to decide the office of treasurer. Richard Kunicich of Chicago also ran for the office.

Members of the class first cast their ballots on Thursday, May 6, in the cafeteria.

Fr. Rapp Marks Golden Jubilee

The Golden Jubilee of the Rev. Ildephonse Rapp's ordination to the priesthood in the Society of the Precious Blood, celebrated on May 5 at St. Joseph's College, was the occasion of the presentation of two honorary degrees by the college. Father Rapp, a St. Joseph's alumnus and professor emeritus, and Archbishop John Noll of the Fort Wayne diocese, were each awarded the degree of Doctor of Letters.

Father Rapp himself celebrated the Mass of Thanksgiving in the college chapel at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Joseph A. Hiller as deacon, and the Rev. Rufus H. Esser as sub-deacon. Archbishop Noll and Bishop John G. Bennett of Lafayette diocese attended in the sanctuary, together with Bishop-elect Clarence Isenmann of Cincinnati. Bishop Leo A. Pursley, auxiliary of the Fort Wayne diocese, preached the sermon.

The presentation of honorary degrees was made by the Very Rev. Raphael H. Gross, president of St. Joseph's College, following a banquet in the college dining room. Citations in honor of Fr. Rapp and Archbishop Noll were read by the Rev. Walter Pax, dean.

Other addresses had been made by Bishops Bennett and Pursley, Fr. Gross, and Msgr. Edmund Mun-govan, vicar-general of the Fort Wayne diocese. Msgr. John A. Sullivan, Dean of the South Bend Deanery, presided as toastmaster.

Eleven St. Joe Students At Political Convention

On April 28, 1954, the Indiana Citizenship Clearing House held its first Student Conference on Politics at the Claypool Hotel in Indianapolis.

Eleven students from St. Joseph's, under the supervision of Father Cletus Dirksen, attended and were unanimous in their praise of the actual Conference and the possibility of participating in future student activities as outlined by the various speakers. Those students attending from St. Joseph's were: Bernard Boff, William Fremgen, Walter Rozanas, Joel Francoeur, Robert La Fontaine, Edward Sikel, Robert Lenzini, Hugh McAvoy, Edward Stepan, Mike Madalon, and Edward Arenz.

Dr. Wilder Speaks

Following early morning registration Dr. Wilder introduced Mr. C. Walter McCarty, Trustee of Indiana University and editor of The Indianapolis News, who delivered a brief objective address on the history of Indiana politics and the need for a larger percentage of the citizenry to participate in government formation.

Dr. Wilder followed this with a

GCElects Officers

George Leibforth, Chicago, was elected president of St. Joseph's Glee Club at a meeting of the club on May 5. Leibforth, who served as vice-president during the past year, succeeds Elmer Molchan who has held the position since September.

Other officers elected were Charles Rohan, vice-president; and Ray Schuessler, secretary-treasurer. Schuessler replaces Don McLean who held the position for one year.

St. Joe Host To Regional NFCCS Congress Saturday

Collegeville Band Presents Annual Spring Program

The annual spring concert will be presented by the college band on Monday evening, May 24, at 8:00 p. m., in the college auditorium.

Featured on the program will be a clarinet solo by Ron Gambla and a number by a trombone trio composed of Ken Banks, Jack Jakubiak, and Jack Lagershausen. The program will include the following numbers:

1. Storm King March
2. Jolly Robbers Overture by Von Suppe
3. Boheme Selections, Puccini
4. April Showers
5. Bolero, Mozowski
6. Knightsbridge March, E. Coates

7. Pan Americana, Romberg
8. Zampa Overture, Herold
9. Hot Time in the Brasses Tonight, Walters
10. Vincent Youman Fantasy

The band is under the direction of Rev. Clement J. Kuhns

As has been the policy in the past years, there will be no admission price and the concert will be open to the public.

Mr. Philip H. Des Marais, instructor in political science at the College of St. Thomas, St. Paul, Minn., will be the keynote speaker this weekend for the eleventh annual congress of the Fort Wayne region of the National Federation of Catholic College Students to be held at St. Joseph's. He will speak on "The Role of the Region."

Mr. Des Marais is a founder of the National Student Association, an organization similar to the NFCCS for all colleges, and is presently a member of the national advisory council of NSA. From 1947 until 1950 he served as executive secretary in the Youth Department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in Washington. In 1951 Mr. Des Marais acted as faculty advisor for the eighth national congress committee of NFCCS. He is now the local moderator of the Federation on the St. Thomas campus.

Senior Delegate

St. Joseph's senior delegate, Ken Ryan, has stated that he expects over 100 students from the six schools in the region to attend. Schools sending delegates, besides St. Joe, will be St. Francis College, Fort Wayne; St. Mary-of-the-Woods College, Terre Haute; Marian College, Indianapolis; Nazareth College, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Aquinas College, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The theme for this year's congress is "A Re-Evaluation of the Fort Wayne Region." During the time of the congress, the region hopes to reach a solution to some of its more vexing problems of the moment and to resolve the question of any needed changes in the present set-up.

The weekend's program will begin Friday evening with the fourth and final meeting of the region NFCCS council. Regional vice-president John White, regional treasurer Buel Adams, regional moderator Father Albert Wuest, regional science commission chairman Frank Holzer, regional OSP chairman John Good, and Ryan will attend as council members from St. Joseph's.

First Plenary Session

Saturday afternoon, the first plenary session will feature Mr. Des Marais' talk. This will be followed by commission panels to set up programs for the commissions next year, as well as to iron out current difficulties within the commissions themselves. Following this, three general panel sessions will be held on the congress theme. These will be led by St. Francis, St. Mary-of-the-Woods, and Nazareth.

A social, open to all St. Joe men, will be held in Raleigh Hall from 8:00-11:30 Saturday evening. There is no admission charge.

Sunday morning will mark the conclusion of the panel session, as well as the second plenary session, at which time officers will be elected for the coming year.

All St. Joe's students have been invited and urged to attend the congress by the local senior delegate.

Club Tours IH Plant

Thirty members of St. Joseph's Commerce Club traveled to Ft. Wayne, Ind., for their annual field trip on May 5.

In Ft. Wayne, they visited the Centlivre Brewing Corporation where they were conducted on a tour throughout the plant. They were taken also on a guided tour of the International Harvester Plant where they witnessed, first hand, the assembling of an International Harvester truck as it moved through the assembly line.

A dance at St. Francis College, Ft. Wayne, was attended by the majority of the Commerce Club members in the evening.

(Bids and Favors): John Good (Decorations); Bill Gillen (Housing); Bill Feely and John Hentschel (Publicity); and Jack Phillips (Workers). Joe Giuffre served as secretary-treasurer for the Committee.

Penthouse Proves Delightful Scene For 1954 Prom

More than 190 couples crowded St. Joseph's fieldhouse floor last weekend as they danced to the music of Ralph Marterie and his orchestra at "Penthouse Serenade," the 1954 Junior Prom.

The old gym took on its new rooftop look with simplicity. Night-lit skyscrapers off in the distance surrounded the dance floor and table section of the "penthouse." A black crepe paper cloud floated serenely above the floor. Modern paintings adorned the one "wall" of the scene; here and there an abstract mobile gave added dimensions to the scene. The penthouse was so exclusive, it even had its own fountain bubbling up amidst the tables of couples eating and partaking of Father Schaefer's liquid privileges.

Silver-and-black programs accompanied the bids of celluloid cylinders which contained two silhouetted dancers among white silk filaments.

Marterie lived up to his press notices, according to majority sentiment. Dance music in all tempos was spiced by listenable numbers "just as we recorded them." Especially liked were the drum and baritone sax soloists of Marterie's aggregation. The maestro himself apparently enjoyed the evening as much as anyone on the floor; this was, some suggested, because he kept thinking of his $1500 fee.

The fieldhouse dance was the climax of a weekend of Prom activity shortened somewhat by the cancellation of the baseball double-header with Chicago University because of rain.

The latest version of the Midnight Revels inaugurated the weekend Friday evening. Floyd Campbell supplied the music to a Raleigh Hall-filled gathering of some 100 couples who danced from 9:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. The Revels had been shifted from their usual position after the Prom, so as to provide an additional evening's entertainment. They took the place of the former Friday night hayride.

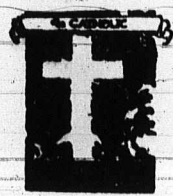

Prom chairman for the juniors was Terry MacCarthy. Jim Zid handled the weekend arrangements. Other committee chairmen were John Cheevers and Jerry Blasieing

Proverb Illustrates Point About Prom Cooperation

Did you ever hear the saying, "You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink." A nicely worded proverb, but who is interested in horses, or for that matter, who is interested in proverbs? We are, for the moment, for it helps bring out a point.

On Saturday last, the Junior class presented their annual prom in the fieldhouse. One of the better bands in the country was secured for quite a large sum of money. No expense or effort was spared in decorating the fieldhouse. The stage was set for perhaps the greatest prom St. Joe had ever offered. But after all the driving was over, the horses still wouldn't drink.

Not more than a third of the student body attended the prom. Where were the other two-thirds?

Were they locked in their rooms studying for the finals? Were they at Indianapolis for the Speedway trials? Or were they at home watching the White Sox lose to the Tigers? Could it be they prefer "Minnie" to Marterie?

Next year's prom now presents a problem. Would it be worthwhile to hold a prom for one-third of the student body? The prom represents a lot of work, a lot of trouble; and for what?—One-third of the class! The question arises, why have the prom at all?

All that can be said at the present is that a lot of juniors did a lot of work for the entire student body and it was appreciated by only a few. The horses were pushed, goaded, and shoved to the water, but they wouldn't drink.

William Hoyng Receives CSMC Presentation

William Hoyng, chairman of the DMU Redistribution Center during the past year, has received the Order of St. Louis the Crusader Award. This award is granted by the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade to members for outstanding achievement in the line of apostolic work and Catholic action.

Leon Flaherty, president of the Dwenger Mission Unit, sent a report concerning the work of the Redistribution Center to the CSMC headquarters in Cincinnati, and the award was given to William Hoyng as a result.

During the school year the Redistribution Center has emerged as a highly organized group. Dealing especially with remailing, the club has sent more than two thousand pounds of Catholic magazines, pamphlets, and books to missions in India, Africa, and the Philippine Islands. Clothes and religious articles are usually sent to missions in the United States.

At the Dwenger Mission meeting held on April 25, James Luley delivered the third of a series of talks which compose the Missionary Academia. He spoke on the importance of Catholic doctors and nurses in the foreign missions.

On May 16, the Dwenger Mission Unit will hold elections for officers of the 1954-55 scholastic year. At the same meeting, the revised constitution of the Unit will be voted upon.

Klingenger Receives Award

Don Klingenger, a St. Joseph's senior from Fort Wayne, Ind., was awarded the Fr. Gordon Memorial Award for being chosen the outstanding senior member of St. Joseph's Commerce Club. The award was presented at the annual Commerce Club banquet held at the Ranch House restaurant in Rensselaer. On May 4.

Mr. William Reffelt, a Rensselaer business man, was made an honorary member of the club. Bernie Boff, the Commerce Club president, and Wayne Howe were awarded keys for three years active membership in the club.

Rev. Joseph A. Smolar, newly appointed Coordinator of Student Activities, was the principal speaker of the evening.

BILLSTUFF

By Bill Feely

Prom time has come and gone, and only the memories are left—only the memories. The Revels were cool, hep, gone. The Prom was magnificent. The decorations, the supervised drinking, and the golden trumpet of Ralph Marterie helped make "Penthouse Serenade" a huge success. Congratulations to the Junior class which gave St. Joe a prom which will never be forgotten.

Rumor has it that Stuff will have a new editor next year. Let's hope he has enough endurance to put up with Billstuff.

Nelson, Gregoire Spark CP Presentation Of "The Male Animal"

By John Good

The Columbian Players have done it again. Despite what seemed to many as insurmountable handicaps, they were able to present a highly entertaining presentation of the "Male Animal" to an appreciative Parent's Day audience.

Unfortunately, too much emphasis was given to the comic elements; this resulted in poor balance. Situations bordering on slapstick destroyed much of the real humor of the lines. In some parts, particularly Act II, Scene 2, they were often infantile, unmotivated, and unnecessary.

The set deserved the audiences' applause, though a little too opulent looking for the home of a struggling college prof whose wife needed a winter coat. The most distracting thing of the evening was the constant movement of the mobiles hanging from the ceiling. Presenting a character is a hard enough job in itself without having to compete with the set all evening.

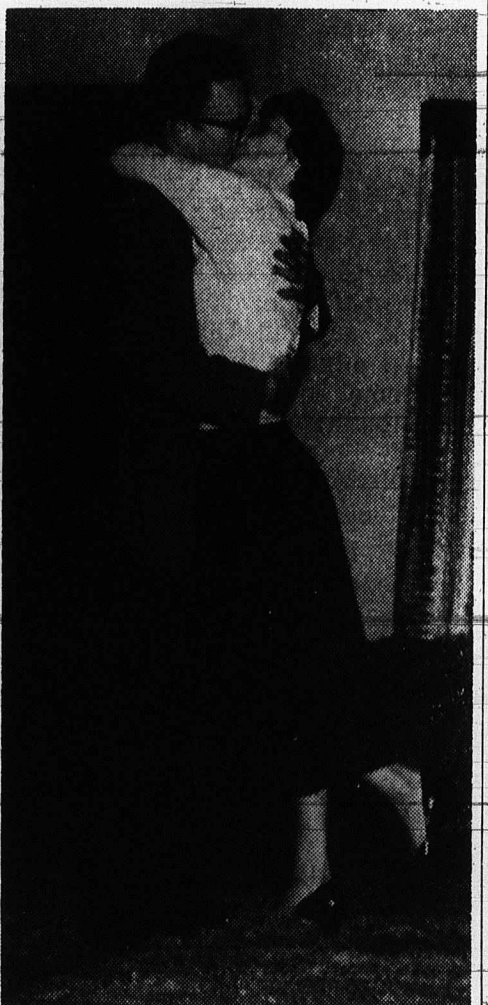

Blocking was on the whole quite poor though the fight scene between the Turners showed some good showmanship. In an attempt to circumvent the couch, Dean Damon found himself fighting his way through a jungle of goose neck lamps, bookcases, and chairs.

The best job of lighting done this year still fell short of the usual CP standards. There is need for more emphasis on this very important part of dramatics.

The absolute highlight of the evening and the thing that naturally put the play over was the acting itself. Both Ruth Nelson and Bob Gregoire handled their characters with finesse and sensitivity. Their support was in most instances much in this same vein.

The most refreshing performance presented at St. Joseph's in many a year was given by a newcomer,

Ruth Nelson and Bob Gregoire as Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Turner in a scene from "The Male Animal."

Ruth Nelson. By the very way in which she handled her character, however, she proved only too well that she was no newcomer to the theatre. Whether or not the part was made for her will not be debated, it is sufficient to say she made it seem that way with ease.

As an English professor put in a most awkward situation; Bob Gregoire was most convincing. He was every inch the somewhat absent minded prof who had women all figured out psychologically. He managed to give the audience an insight to a very complex character who could put up a good fight for the sake of principle, but was willing to let his beloved wife go her own way because she seemed to him to still care for an old beau.

His reading of the Vanzetti letter was particularly good and had the audience at their most attentive. The drunken scene was also to be highly rated, though he competed with an awful lot during this whole scene.

Jack Carlson in the supporting role of Joe Ferguson, the returning football hero and Ellen's old beau was not too convincing. He was never quite able to mature his character into the type needed to play the "other man" to the Turners.

The character of Dean Damon was well handled by Buel Adams, though he seemed to lack proper voice control, especially the first evening. His facial expression was excellent and he developed the genial old hen-pecked dean's role with grace befitting a retiring senior.

Ruth Hunter, as the Dean's wife, failed to convince even herself that she was an elderly domineering woman given to gossiping about health.

Ed Hebda was Ed Keller all the way thru the play with ease. Mary Lonergan as his wife was an excellent "Myrtle", but lacked stage experience and was somewhat staggered by her "laugh lines."

The juvenile roles were well handled. Beverly Sterrett's voice was a bit too nervous, but she had her character well in tow. Terry Flynn was most convincing and did a good job on a minor role. While Jack Lagerhausen overplayed his part to distraction, especially in the drunken scene; he seemed to have forgotten the necessity of motivation and reserve. Tony Good had very little on which to be judged.

As Cleota the maid, Louise Shide left much to be desired. Her voice was very weak and will require much practice before projection comes easily. She did her best with her limited experience.

Now the play is over, the flats are back in place, the furniture returned and the CP's have once again proven themselves. Much work will be needed in future, but they have shown themselves capable of much work when needed.

Bob Gregoire, Jack Carlson, and Ruth Nelson in a scene from "The Male Animal."

Parents Crowd Campus Despite Rainy Weather

Despite inclement weather, parents flocked to the campus for St. Joseph's annual Parent's Day on Sunday, May 2. Braving intermittent showers, the parents participated in the many activities planned for the day including campus tours, social visits, and a Marian Year procession.

Following social visits throughout the morning, an intra-squad football game was played in the early afternoon. Shortly after this, a student organ recital was held in the auditorium.

At 4:30, the parents gathered in the college chapel for an address by Rev. Raphael H. Gross, president of the college. Benediction was then held and the Marian Year procession to the Grotto then followed.

Concluding the day's activities was the Columbian Players production of the "Male Animal" in the college theater at 7:15. Exhibits were presented in the library throughout the day. Concerts given by Professor Paul Tonner on the Kune Memorial Carillon were heard from 11:30 until 5:30.

UPPER CLASSMEN

Brookfield, Ill., feature editor of STUFF.

John Donnelly of Trenton, N.J., failed in his efforts to be re-elected to the vice-presidency, as he was defeated by Harold Pennington of Jackson, Mich. Bill Gillen of Chicago ran unopposed for class secretary.

In the race for treasurer, Terry MacCarthy defeated George Kalafut for the position. Both are from Chicago.

Bulletin

Puma ace, Dick Dwinell, stopped the Valparaiso Crusaders with only two hits yesterday as St. Joe combined some timely hitting and fancy fielding to whip their arch rival 6-0.

This victory evened the score with Valpo, who inflicted the only loss of the season upon the Pumas just a week ago.

St. Joe picked up all of their runs in the first and seventh innings, following triples by Ralph Meyer and Bob Wasni respectively.

Trackmen Place At Manchester; Kneip Sets Mark

St. Joseph's rapidly improving track team piled up a total of 45 points in placing second in a triangular meet with Manchester College of Indiana and Hillsdale College of Michigan on May 1. The St. Joe cindermen won five of 14 events on the Manchester track. A lack of reserve strength cost the Pumas a possible victory.

Marv Hackman won the opening event, the high hurdles, and also placed third in the low hurdles. Joe Kneip captured both dashes, winning the 100 in 9.95 and the 220 in 21.6, setting new records for the Manchester track.

Freshman Neil Stewart won the 440-yard dash with a driving finish. Stewart also placed fourth in the low hurdles. Carl Jaeger outdistanced all competitors in the half mile for St. Joe's final first place.

John Cheek and George Kuhn each picked up valuable points by placing second in their respective distance events while Ed DeWald and Don Vaughn placed third in the dashes. Ken Dolan was third in the high jump with a leap of 5 feet, 5 inches, and Ken Banks was third in the pole vault.

The mile relay team of Stewart, Banks, Jaeger, and Cheek wound up the Puma scoring by placing second.

Hillsdale won the meet, scoring 72 points. Manchester was third with 43 points.

St. Joe Linksmen Suffer Setbacks

The St. Joe golfers, after defeating Chicago University 9½-5½, suffered three straight setbacks. ICC foe, Ind. State turned in an 18-0 lacing of the Pumas on April 30. Ron Roach of the Sycamores shot a one-under par 71 to top the field. Merle Effing's 79 and Steve Kubiatowski's 80 were low for St. Joe.

Glenview Naval Air Station met and defeated the Collegeville linksmen in the Pumas' first home match. Glenview scored a 13-5 victory which was marked with wind and snow flurries.

Tom Smeeton shot an 82 but picked up two of the Pumas' five points.

Valparaiso hosted a tri-meet which featured Glenview, St. Joseph's, and Valparaiso. Alan Holmes of Valpo shot a 73 to score 5½ points, but it was not enough as Glenview walked off with top honors.

Former CP Director Returning To Campus

Mr. Ralph Cappuccilli, 1946 graduate of St. Joseph's and instructor in speech and dramatics here from 1948 until the spring of 1952, will return to direct the Columbian Players next year, present director Mr. Lee O'Connell announced at a CP meeting Monday night.

Mr. Cappuccilli procured a leave of absence in 1952 in order to return to his native Monroe, Mich., and take charge of a family business. Since then he has married and is at present an instructor in a Monroe high school. In his four previous years as moderator of the Players, Mr. Cappuccilli has directed a wide range of productions, from farce to Shakespeare's "Othello," his last presentation prior to his leaving.

Bill Walker was elected 1954-55 president of the CP's at the same meeting, taking over from roommate Dick Kotheimer, the incumbent. Assisting Walker, who served as secretary this year, will be Jack Carlson as vice-president, John Good as secretary, and Frank DeSana as treasurer.

Besides the election of incoming officers, the actors also set May 30 as a temporary date for their annual picnic, to be held this year at Indiana Dunes State Park. Accompanying the members and probationary members of the club will be the honorary members — those women who have been elected so for their participation in the Players' productions. Added to the list of the latter at the Monday meeting were Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Mary Loneragan, Louise Shide, and Ruth Hunter.

The installation of the new officers is slated at the time of the picnic. No formal ceremony is expected.

The teams, named after the figures of a chess game, are the Bishops, Pawns, Rooks, Queens, and Knights. The captains, who were elected by all the players, are James Luley, John Falter, Lee Ward, Cleatus O'Drobinak, and Gerard Schmidt respectively. Forty-two Xavierites are participating in the league. Four priests, Fathers Cera, Kuhns, Schmuck, and White, have helped fill out the teams, in more ways than one. It is rather difficult job trying to predict the final standings. However, on the spot, it seems safe to say that either the Queens or Knights have the best chance of winning top honors. Both teams have good pitching, but the Queens have heavier hitting and better fielding.

In the first game of the season the Pawn's beat the Bishops 11 to 3. The game was highlighted by the 11 errors of the Bishops. However, the Bishops came back to win the third game of the season by edging out the Knights 7 to 6. The second game was battled out by the Rooks and Queens. From the first inning to the seventh there was an abundance of hard hitting and poor fielding. The Queens, however, settled down before the Rooks did and this meant the game.

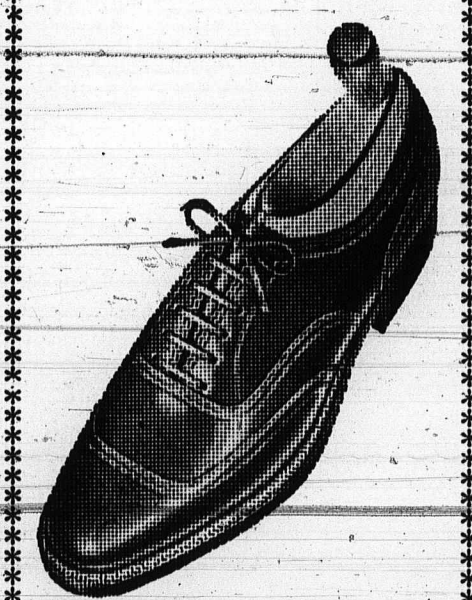

The team standings are:

| Team    | W | L |
|---------|---|---|
| Pawns   | 1 | 0 |
| Queens  | 1 | 0 |
| Bishops | 1 | 1 |
| Knights | 0 | 1 |
| Rooks   | 0 | 1 |
